

*kent
healy*

SPEAKER
AUTHOR
BUSINESSMAN

the opportunity

If there is one thing all humans want it's opportunity—the chance to do more, relax more, see more, and be more. The challenge is, opportunity is not encountered, it's created. And creating more and better options in today's world requires an uncommon approach to life with the right skills, insights, and strategies.

We're learning that many rules from the past century do not necessarily apply today while simultaneously witnessing the advent of many new rules that have rapidly developed. But unfortunately, we're not taught the dynamics of this new game. This is what Kent refers to as "uncommonsense" and he has been on a decade long journey to help people fill in these gaps in their unconventional education.

Kent Healy shares the skills, insights, and strategies that urge people to reexamine the way they have been told to view "reality." Why is this important? Because altering perspective is the catalyst for innovation and inspiration—both of which can initiate a better life, business, or ... you name it.

Kent is an informative and dynamic speaker who inspires and empowers audiences of all ages to become Maverick thinkers and doers. As we shift from an information economy to a creative economy, developing a personal and professional edge has never been more important. Today, thinking different is not only wise, but necessary.

Instead of trying to play the game better than other participants, Kent explains how Mavericks change the game itself. They operate by rules that change the rules.

It's a new game out there and it's your turn to participate.

And Kent can help.

the background

Kent began speaking professionally as a teenager and has never looked back. He has spoken to various schools, universities, organizations, and businesses around the globe.

In the world of speaking, the best praise is a return invitation. And Kent has an impressive record of repeat invitations at events for the second and third time. Over eighty percent of his speech bookings are repeat invites, word of mouth referrals, and personal recommendations—a testament to his effectiveness.

No two speeches by Kent are ever the same. He tailors his presentations to suit the objectives, theme, format, and audience of the event.

the topics

Kent addresses the topics of innovation, creativity, productivity, collaboration, education, leadership, and life skills. He also speaks about entrepreneurship, location independent self-employment, branding, and practical strategies of success.

the services

Kent offers keynotes, workshops, and Q&A presentations that are offered as full-day, half-day, or hour-long events. He has worked with audiences from across the board including students, faculty, staff of all levels, community leaders, and more.

the message

Kent is well known for saying, “Competency is our only security.” The reality is, our only security in life is one’s ability to produce results. This is true for both individuals and companies.

If recent economic trends have taught us one thing, it’s that security does not exist in the same places and in the same ways it once did. People are at the source of every outcome. This is why investing in the right experiences and education is the only way to increase quality of performance.

Kent draws from a life of consistent learning and serial entrepreneurship to share thought provoking, relevant, and practical insights that suit the specific needs of your students, employees, and organization.

about kent healy

At a young age, Kent realized that his conventional schooling was not offering the important life-skills necessary to become successful in the real world. His relentless drive to discover the workings of success led him to form relationships with world leaders in the field of personal development, author 6 books by age 24, and travel to speak around the globe. His recent work focuses on creative and uncommon ways to trounce the status quo in business and in life.

Today, in his late twenties, he owns and operates several businesses from publishing to real estate. Learn more about Kent:

www.maximsformavericks.com

www.theuncommonlife.com

www.25tolifeblog.com

www.kenthealy.com

www.coolstuffmedia.com

To see a sample of Kent's writing, download a FREE copy of Maxims for Mavericks here.

contact

We know that selecting a speaker requires immense trust. Kent takes that very seriously. We realize you don't only want impact, but also practical insights and strategies that can be used by the participants as they pursue goals that help them, as well your organization or school, to grow. This is precisely why Kent's no-nonsense approach has been so popular. Kent is so confident you will extract value from his message that he offers a 100% money-back guarantee.

We look forward to working with you,

help@kenthealy.com